There been arguments about social activism and its impact on teenagers. On the one hand there is no harm in teenagers doing social activism cause most of the times it's something ~~that~~ made with good meaning. But on the other hand there is no guarantee that they could join some dangerous and highly focused social activities.

In my opinion there is benefits and risks in social activism, less stone with the benefits. Teenagers while engaging in social activism can gain experience, learn new skills and learn more about world. Because it's better to learn from practice than from theory. Also social activism means socializing and it helps to improve their ability in teenagers. Never the less there is always a down side of everything. Everyone should know that social activists are way be political, propagandistic and coming towards harm and evil. Someone may use teenagers as strike power by relying on their trust and government buying with propaganda. It's always important that teenagers understand that not all social activism is legal and made with good meaning. However I think social activism it's not a problem but symptoms of a disease in our society if we talk about bad social activism.

Social activism may to make good impact in society or cause harm at the same time but it's always depends on what kind of social activism.
